

Newport News Wins Series by Dividing Doubleheader

BY SPLITTING BILL NEWPORT NEWSTAKES SERIES FROM COLTS

Richmond Wins First of Double-Header From Builders, With Ayers Pitching, but Strain Is Not so Effective, and Loses Second in Exciting Contest.

BY GUS MALBERT.

Doctor Yancey Wyatt Ayers, about whom some few words have been beaten from various brands of typewriters during the past few days, was engaged as pitcher yesterday in the first game of a regularly scheduled double-header with Newport News—and Richmond lost the second.

Which is by way of saying that the wayward sons from the placid stretches of Hampton Roads took three out of four arguments in the choicest brand of debates offered here thus far this season.

Doctor Ayers had little trouble subduing the recalcitrant horde, though he was unduly ruffled at various stages of the matinee. Not quite so good a report can be made of the doings of Charles Strain, who essayed to bring the afternoon's pastime to a suitable climax.

The scores were, in the chronological order of their happening, 9 to 3, in favor of Richmond, and 3 to 2, in favor of Newport News.

Little Trouble in Opener.

The first was merely a romp for the Griffins. Behind good pitching—the Ayers kind—the local outfit always looks good. Added to the fact that they were confident of success while the cougar of the hills was chugging his very best, they were evening up matters for the mauling they received on Friday. Eleven safe knocks were recorded to their credit, one being a rather questionable home run by Ducky Ebets in the stretch period. There was never any question of which way the tide would turn during this engagement. Bob Austin started out well enough, causing Newton, Laval and Bresnahan to whiff in the opening canto, but after that he was the easiest kind of picking.

As for the doctor, until his supporters had established a real lead and made the game easy, he was unassailable. For five bounces he allowed not even a hit, and the one made in the sixth was so out of order that had he gone the limit with nothing charged against him but this one blow, it is a certain bet that somebody would have been charged with an error, and the doctor with a no-hit conflict. But, with the Colts so far out in front that there was no danger of heading them, he eased up perceptibly in the seventh, when three hard bounces brought home a Newport News run. In the ninth, after Geyer had beaten one of those teasing rollers, Arthur Smith hit at the first ball offered and drove it jumping to the clubhouse for the second home run of the game, scoring himself and Geyer. The doctor came to the conclusion that this was enough, and retired the rest of the crowd without trouble.

dolph, and Rogers was an easy out at first. Charlie Strain had a chance to win his own game, for Rogers' out had put Ebets on third. Overanxiety brought about Strain's undoing. He looked at two, struck at one and fouled the next, after which he was retired on strikes, his last attempt being at a ball that was clearly bad.

Second More Interesting.

Of the two contests, the second was far the more interesting, though the first ended in a more satisfactory manner. Ayers was clearly the hero of the initial encounter. Not only did he pitch splendid baseball, but his three-base hit drove in one of the runs, while on a squeeze play in the seventh he laid down a perfect bunt which brought Rogers over. In addition, he pulled the most sensational fielding stunt of the game when he caught Chastant's bunt off his shoes.

Strain was given the kind of defense that should have won, but that he was not opportunely. Two lightning doubles were made. The first, relayed from Ebets to Strain, after Ducky had caught Tarleton's fly in the third inning, was about as spectacular as could be staged. The other was a fast bit of work, which Bresnahan, Riley and Newton were concerned. It stopped an almost certain run.

It was not a satisfactory day, for Petersburg whipped Roanoke twice, thereby gaining another game on the series. Following will be found a descriptive detailed story of each game.

FIRST GAME

Just three men faced Dr. Ayers in the first inning. Gondolf fouled to Rogers, Chastant struck out and Haddow gave Plet an easy chance. Bob Austin started like a winner, as he struck out Newton, Laval and Bresnahan without any apparent effort.

Again in the second and in the third, fourth and fifth, Ayers was going in grand style. Eight Austin in the third and Haddow in the fourth, but neither got further than second base. In the sixth, after Richmond had a lead of three runs, he eased up a trifle, and one run made by Newport News was registered. Geyer, after two strikes had been called on him, bunted down first base, in just such fashion that neither Ayers nor Riley could field the ball. It was the first rebuff of the doctor, but he had been made a pitcher with a clout to center and Powell hit in the same spot the three bounces counting once when Geyer crossed the platter. In the ninth, after Tarleton had been retired on a ground ball from Newton to Riley, Arthur Smith pounded for a circuit slam, and the two additional tallies credited to the invaders were dropped into the hamper.

Richmond scored in the second when Austin hit Ebets. He stole second and third and scored when Bob cut loose with a wild heave. Two more were added in the fifth, when Sandy hit to right and pitched second and third, cashing on Ayers' triple to right. It wasn't a real triple, but Haddow, suffering with a lame arm, was unable to relay the ball, and the doctor took advantage of that fact. Doc scored on Laval's tap.

Ebets' home run, Plet's hit and Jay Rogers' triple, helped out by a perfect

SECOND GAME

Bob Carter, helped by Harry Mathews, won the second with comparative ease. Charlie Strain was in the hole from the very beginning, the Builders pounding away at what he offered, fortunately struck out Newton, Laval and Bresnahan in the early stages. Strain's curve ball was weak, and his lack of control kept him grooving in his fast ball. Mace did not help him any, giving him no chance to rest, but hurrying the throw continually.

The Colts scored first. It was in the second. Riley hit, and when Mathews tried to stop him at second, John took third on the wild heave, which landed in center. Chick Davis produced a two-base hit and John scored. That was the only run of the game until the sixth, when Newport News took the lead. Carter opened the inning by hitting Gondolf singled and went to second when Chastant walked. Haddow struck out, and with Tarleton up, Strain lost his ball game. Tarleton is no young ball player. He knows every brand of curve ball pitch, and Laval's screaming triple to left. But with only one down and Bill on third, neither Bresnahan nor Davis could score him.

It was in the ninth that the winning run was scored. Tarleton started with his second triple, and Geyer delivered the blow that brought him over. Richmond scored in the second when Austin hit Ebets. He stole second and third and scored when Bob cut loose with a wild heave. Two more were added in the fifth, when Sandy hit to right and pitched second and third, cashing on Ayers' triple to right. It wasn't a real triple, but Haddow, suffering with a lame arm, was unable to relay the ball, and the doctor took advantage of that fact. Doc scored on Laval's tap.

PIRATES AND TARS DIVIDE HONORS

Norfolk Takes First Game Easily, Losing Last Through Smith's Wildness.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Norfolk, Va., August 2.—Portsmouth and Norfolk split even in the two games played across the river this afternoon. The Tars should have won both games and would have done so, but for the fact that Smith, a new pitcher, could not find the plate and walked enough men in the first inning of the second game to lose it. The Tars had a snap in the first game. They pounded Brown all over the lot, and actually got tired running bases. Eleven runs were scored during the game. Summary: Norfolk, 11; Portsmouth, 3.

GRIFFIN THREATENS GENERAL SHAKE-UP IN RANKS OF COLTS

Showing This Week Not Approved by Leader—Looking in Every Direction to Bolster Pitching Staff.

Catchers Also Cause for Worry—May Play Poh at Second, With Davis at Third, Resting Bresnahan.

BY GUS MALBERT.

Returning Thursday with three games won at the expense of Norfolk, and then dropping three out of four to Newport News, is not a very pleasant retrospect for Sir Fan; yet that's what Richmond has done. And in the meantime Petersburg has added another game on the right side of the book. Thus the Colts are worse off now than when the week begun, though winning four out of seven.

It is no secret that Manager Griffin is displeased with the way in which some of his men are performing. His pitching strength has crumbled, and he is now in the position of having only one dependable man—Ayers. No club can win a pennant with one pitcher, and that's why Griff is on the trail looking for more material. He has had a number of men offered him, but they are not the kind that can jump right in and win. What he wants is a winner. Naturally, any deal whereby material is obtained must contain some element of chance. However, if the right man, or rather, men, for he is looking for two pitchers, can be obtained, the management will pay the price. The wires have been kept hot these last two days, and every club in the International and Southern Leagues has been importuned to turn loose some excess material to help bolster the local defense.

Aside from his pitching, there are other things worrying Griff. He knows that some of the men are not taking as good care of themselves as they might. He is perfectly willing to concede that he is under a considerable strain. The dog days are here, and the grind of seven scheduled games a week is not calculated to husband strength. Yet, taking all of this into consideration, he feels that a little less dissipation might prove a strong tonic in helping them over the rough places.

"You can put this down," said the Colt leader last night, "any of those fellows who think they are fooling me had better transfer right now. I know what is what, and I know the men who are not in condition. I know why they are not in condition. Right now is when I need them most. We are up in the race, and we are going to win the pennant. If a few suspensions have to be placed and new material imported. But it does seem hard on me when the men in whom I have placed the greatest dependence lay down and put me in a hole. It's got to stop or some heads will be lopped off. I am looking for pitchers, and I may have a new infielder. Likewise I am looking for catching material. Before the end of the week, unless something proves to me that the men are taking their work more seriously, there'll be considerable of a shakeup among the Colts."

Doc must learn a natural motion to the bases. At present fast men, such as he will encounter in the big show, would steal everything around the bases and might take the doctor's glove. But this is something he can easily be taught. One other fault, which might, by some, be construed as a virtue, is his too good control; he doesn't know how to waste a ball. It sounds paradoxical to say that a pitcher with speed and a nasty breaking curve has too great control, but in this instance it is a fact. Offsetting these trifling faults is the fact that he has

PITCHER HERBERT POUNDED AT WILL

Former Virginia Leaguer Hit for Total of Five Runs in One Inning He Lasted—Phillies Form Habit of Knocking Out Double Base Clouts.

Cincinnati, August 2.—Rixey, of the Phillies, went to the mound and held the Reds at all stages, the visitors winning from the Reds, 5 to 1. Suggs started for Cincinnati and did good work, but never had a chance for a victory, owing to the inability of the Reds to hit behind him. He was taken out in the eighth to allow Kling to bat, and Herbert, the youngster, was sent in to finish the game. The Phillis easily fathomed Mr. Herbert, and he was stung for five runs in the one inning he worked. Two batters were the Phillis' fashion in this round, three being registered. Shocker, who pitched for the Reds in the ninth and scored on a pair of hits which followed. Score: Cincinnati, 5; Philadelphia, 1.

CARDS DEFEAT BRAVES

St. Louis, August 2.—The Cardinals won from the Braves here to-day, 4 to 3. Harmon, the local twirler, pitched while Tyler, his opponent, allowed nine. Three bingles in the first round netted the visitors a run, and two safeties and a sacrifice in the final stanza gave them another. The Cardinals scored only in the third, on a triple and a sacrifice; two in the fourth on two hits and a sacrifice. Harmon's triple, a pass and a double steal, scored the fourth tally in the fifth. FOUR STRAIGHT FOR PIRATES

Pittsburgh, Pa., August 2.—The Pirates made a four straight from the Brooklyn, taking to-day's game, 7 to 4. The locals won the game in the eighth, when a hit batsman, two singles and two triples off Curtis netted four runs. A pass and throw and a single gave the locals a run in the fourth and two more in the next round on three safeties and an error. The visitors scored three in the fifth on three doubles and a single, and another in the sixth on a pass and two bingles. Walker started for Brooklyn, but was replaced by Curtis in the fifth. Star Hurler of Senators Presented With Silver Loving Cup.

PRESIDENT WILSON VIEWS CEREMONY

Sublime Walter Repays His Friends by Defeating Detroit, 3 to 2—Record-Breaking Crowd Attends—Cobb Goes Hitless—Dauss Pitches Good Game.

Washington, August 2.—Washington baseball fans this afternoon celebrated Walter Johnson Day by presenting the great pitcher with a silver loving cup filled with greenbacks, representing an expenditure of $1,400, and Johnson gladdened their hearts by laying low the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 2. A monster crowd turned out for the occasion, which was the seventh anniversary of Johnson in the role of a major leaguer. President Wilson lent his presence, viewing the game from one of the boxes in the upper grandstand tier. Johnson was batted harder than Dauss, but tightened up when danger threatened. NAPS CLEAN UP SERIES

Boston, August 2.—Cleveland made a grand clean-up in the Red Sox series, winning to-day's double-header by scores of 10 to 0 and 7 to 0, and then took the train for Philadelphia, where on Monday they open with the Athletics. They are to-day just six and one-half games behind the American League leaders. Not in years have the Red Sox lost five straight games, a series on their home grounds. The Cleveland club accomplished this trick by splendid all-round ball playing, coupled with first-class pitching. Gregg pitched the first game, while Lajoie, headliner and the Red Sox made ten hits off him. Scores: Cleveland, 10; Boston, 0.
